

G. O. P. LEADER EXPLAINS VIEWS

Senator Nelson Confers with President on Currency Measure.

OBJECTIONS ARE STATED

Glass Bill Expected to Be Reported to Senate November 10—Ten Days May Suffice for Consideration.

President Wilson's conference with Senator Nelson of Minnesota, senior member of the committee on Banking and Currency, marked the first effort on the part of the administration to obtain light upon the legislative situation in the senate, so far as the Republicans are concerned.

Senator Nelson took pains to explain to the Chief Executive that such Republican opposition as might exist to currency legislation was aimed not at the bill proposed by the administration, but at certain of its provisions.

The hearings of the week ended yesterday before the Senate committee have been productive of a generally better feeling among the committee's members. Day by day Senator Brister has evidenced a waning interest in the desirability of making farm mortgages collateral for bank-note circulation. The constant reiteration by bankers and financial experts that the twelve regional bank provision of the Glass-Owen bill is one of the chief stumbling blocks to its ultimate success has convinced a large majority of the committee—and a majority not divided upon party lines—that whereas the bill may provide for more than one reserve bank, the initiation of the new system probably will not require the creation of more than three, with the possible limit of five, for the better safeguarding and mobilization of the Federal reserve.

Points of Criticism.

The committee has heard repeated condemnations of the scheme to make the notes of the new reserve banks a federalized issue, and whereas a number of members of the committee realize the inutility of this provision, the belief now prevails that the notes as provided in the withdrawn bill will at least be guaranteed by the United States government.

A very general criticism of the bill is the objection to the ex officio membership of the Federal reserve board. The inclusion of the Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, especially is criticized.

The President has been informed by members of the Senate committee friendly to the administration that there is a chance that the bill will be reported to the Senate about November 10. Upon high Republican authority the opinion is expressed that with reasonable unanimity of action in the committee, and no effort therein to play politics, ten days of actual consideration will suffice for the reframing of the bill.

WOMAN DEAD; FIREMEN CALLED

Some One in Crowd Misunderstands Cause of Excitement.

Firemen were summoned yesterday to rescue Mrs. Alice Adams, of 314 N. Street, Southwest, who was found dead from asphyxiation by Elmer E. Clark, her son-in-law.

Clark smelled gas fumes coming from the dining room of the residence. He found his mother-in-law on a couch. Gas was escaping from two jets. Clark stopped the flow of gas and ran into the street for aid. He met a woman, and tried to tell her of the affair. A crowd was attracted. Some one misunderstood the cause of the excitement and sounded a fire alarm.

When an ambulance from Emergency Hospital reached the Clark residence, physicians found firemen in possession of the house. Mrs. Adams was dead.

It was said by Clark that his mother-in-law had attempted suicide on two previous occasions. He knew of no motive for the act.

NEGRO ASSAILANT ESCAPES.

Abraham and Wife Robbed of Silver Mesh Bag Containing $12.

While on their way home last night from a tailor shop in Ninth Street Northwest, Abraham and his wife, residing at 114 New Jersey Avenue Northwest, were assaulted by a negro, who escaped with a silver mesh bag containing $12 belonging to Mrs. Abraham.

According to the story told the police, the couple were in O Street between Fourth and Fifth Streets Northwest, when a negro approached them from behind and grabbed the purse belonging to Mrs. Abraham. Her husband grasped with the negro, who succeeded in making his escape.

A full description of the assailant was furnished the police of the second precinct.

NATIONAL BANKS BARRED.

Bill Prohibits Them from Making Campaign Contributions.

National banks and all corporations organized under Federal law are prohibited from contributing to campaign funds, under the terms of a bill introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Sterling of South Dakota.

The bill also provides that no corporation whatever shall contribute to the campaign funds of candidates for President, Vice President, Senators, or Representatives.

Fines ranging from $1,000 to $5,000 and jail sentences of one year are provided for violations of the act.

Fugitive from Justice Returned.

Edward Cook, seventeen years old, escaped trial here by telling the police that he was a fugitive from justice. Cook was arrested for stealing several articles from an elevator. He told the police that he had broken jail at Bullton, N. Y., where he was awaiting trial. The New York police, when notified, said that a detective had started for Washington to accompany Cook back to Bullton.

Aged Man Injured in Fall.

William Lorden, seventy years old, of 708 D Street Northwest, was taken to Emergency Hospital last night suffering from concussion of the brain. At a late hour he had not recovered consciousness, and the police are at a loss to understand how he received his injuries. It is supposed that he fell down the steps at his home.

Elder Conrad, in Address to Adventists, Tells of Hardships Endured in Foreign Countries.

Instances in which believers in doctrines contrary to the established church were cast into prison in Germany and Austria, and a number were exiled from Russia, were cited by Elder L. R. Conrad, of Hamburg, Germany, who gave a vivid picture of some of the hardships suffered by these people in his address before members of the Takoma Park Seventh-Day Adventist Church yesterday.

Elder Conrad has been a missionary in Europe for twenty-seven years. He is president of the European division of Seventh-Day Adventists. He is here for the fall council of the General and North American division conference, which has been in session during the past week. FAMILY OF SEVEN IS KILLED BY OUTLAWS

Only Member Who Escapes Violence Is Brother Living in Brooklyn.

Special Cable to The Washington Herald.

Milan, Oct. 18.—A band of outlaws has meted out a dreadful vengeance on a well-to-do Sicilian family named Calogero, who lived at Favara, near Palermo.

Several months ago the brigands suspected the family of acting as spies for the police and plotting to have them captured while entertaining them at dinner. The outlaws accordingly sent Signor Calogero a black-edged message, warning him that the whole family would be wiped out before the fall of the leaves.

On June 1 the father, mother, and two elder sons were found murdered, and several months ago the two younger sons and their sister, Fiorenza, were thereupon taken away by friends to Castrolibero, in the hope of averting further violence. It was in vain, for three nights ago the brigands waylaid and shot dead all three.

The only remaining member of the family is a married brother, with two children, living in Brooklyn, N. Y.

POLICE REFUTE WOMAN'S STORY OF $20,000 BRIBE

No Testimony Bearing on Belias Connection with "Ritual Murder" Heard at Trial Session.

Kiatt, Russia, Oct. 18.—The entire testimony of today's session of the trial of Mendel Belias, charged with the "ritual murder" of Andrew Yushinsky, concerned the alleged $20,000 bribe offered Vera Cherbeyak, a recent witness. No testimony bearing on the guilt or innocence of Belias was offered.

A number of police officers were placed on the witness stand to refute the Cherbeyak woman's testimony that she had been offered the bribe to confess that she was an accessory to the murder and to implicate seven others.

Belias apparently has become reconciled to the routine of the trial and he no longer rises to protest and interrupt testimony, as he quietly listens to the testimony, as if he realizes that he is but a minor factor and that the real issue of the trial revolves around principles other than the death of the Yushinsky boy.

One of the witnesses called today was Zedek, a schoolmate of the Yushinsky boy. The witness testified that Vera Cherbeyak had tried to persuade him to testify that he had seen Belias dragging Andrew Yushinsky toward the brick yard on the day the murder was committed.

Mrs. Cherbeyak, who was sitting near the witness box, jumped up and shouted: "You are not speaking the truth. It is shameful to say such things."

MRS. PANKHURST FIGHTS FOR ENTRY

crimes of which she was convicted in England constituted moral turpitude and prevent her entrance into this country.

Mrs. Pankhurst has been assigned to the room formerly occupied by former President Castro of Venezuela, and more recently by Marie Lloyd, the English music hall singer.

"Will you go on a hunger strike?" Mrs. Pankhurst was asked, when told of the decision to deport her.

"I never decide anything until the moment comes when decision must be made," she answered. "I did not expect to be detained. If I am guilty of moral turpitude—a charge of which the House of Commons declared me not guilty—wherein can you Americans glorify the leaders of the Boston tea party? Why have Charles Stewart, Samuel Michael Davitt, and John Redmond allowed to enter and proselyte in the name of the Irish cause?"

"Is it because they are men? If so, I am meeting here in this land of freedom the same element of unfairness that aroused the suffragists in my country to militation."

For the benefit of those who hear the sputter of bombs, the crash of glass, the clatter of bricks and the raucous shouts of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the longest motion picture film ever made, more than two miles of it having passed through the camera, is to acquaint the general public with the aims of the Boy Scout movement. It also explains in a forcible manner the principles for which the organization stands.

The film, however, is not a mere presentation of the drille and pastimes of the organization. The actors are drawn into events in a perfectly natural manner. It is one of the most interesting dramas put out by a film company, so Boy Scout officials declare, and should interest not only those interested in the Boy Scout movement, but all who like thrilling photo dramas of daring and action.

"I did not come here to advise militancy. Your women do not need it. I came not to give advice, but for political support."

WESTERN WOMEN

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Thousands of women, members of various suffrage organizations throughout the Middle West, today gathered in a protest against the deportation of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst
